House Speaker Talks At GOP Rally Here

The 80th congress, which has figured prominently in this presidential campaign, "saved the country from bankruptcy, state socialism and disaster," House Speaker Joseph Martin jr., said last night at a GOP rally in Mansfield.

Martin and state and district candidates addressed about 750 persons at a 17th district Republican meeting in John Simpson auditorium.

The 80th congress, a target of President Truman in his campaign speeches, "has kept faith with the people," Martin said.

"It gave the country the first balanced budget in 16 years. It has reduced the cost of government. It has reduced the national debt. It reduced the heavy wartime taxes The tax reduction was not for the rich, but in favor of the low-income tax groups, Martin said.

He said the congress "gave funds for revitalizing Europe and Asia that they might resist the forward march of communism. It provided funds to win supremacy in the air and rebuild an Army and Navy that can give us security. It was generous in making the life of the farmer a prosperous one.

"It gave generously for irrigation, reclamation, and rural electrification. It worked to bring peace and stability in the relations of labor and management."

Turning to the communism issue, Martin said the Republicans wouldn't stop until the last communist is off the government payroll. And we won't talk about it as a 'red herring,' he added.

He referred to President Truman's description of the communist hunt in Washington.

He declared that the 80th congress set down the principle that communism has no place in the government of the United States. He said that committees of the House and Senate exposed the subversives in government and set up a nation-wide loyalty government.

KNEW ABOUT REDS

"It is a fact of more than passing significance," he said, "that every informed person in Washington has known about these fellow travelers in the bureaus for almost five years. But the first conviction of a communist within the federal structure did not come until after 1947, after the 80th congress had been in session almost four months."

He said "the Republican party has but one master plan of government — the Constitution of the United States. The Constitution is our guide, not only because it worked very successfully over a period of 143 years prior to the New Deal, but also because the last 15 years have taught us that the Constitution and its Bill of Rights are the final protectors of the rights and privileges of American citizenship."

Martin declared that the election of 1946 was "a resurgence of the fundamental spirit of Americanism. Today our whole national life swings along on a steadier cadence of rational optimism.

"The end of a tragic era of confusion, extravagance, cruel economic dislocation and costly administrative bungling is at hand," he asserted. He said that was because of the work of the 80th Congress.

"We took our stand for Constitutional government and we did not retreat in the face of the flagrant abuse of the Presidential veto power," he declared.

He said the people are eager for an era of sustained prosperity, adding: "Once the last shackles of regimentation are removed, once the spirit of enterprise and confidence is restored fully, once the government passes into an era of sound fiscal policies—then we shall begin a period of prosperity unmatched in all our history."

He said Democrats and Republicans alike are the victims of bureaucracy and promised a "real housecleaning in our vastly overstaffed bureaus in Washington."

Martin said he wanted to publicly proclaim his profound thanks that there are millions of Democrats who want to bring the country back "on the American track." He added he wanted to publicly thank Democrats in Congress who had given the Republicans full support in their program.

BLAMES TRUMAN

He charged that the Truman administration had made an effort to hold on to many of its emergency war powers, and said such "legal confusion" must be cleaned out. "And," he said, "we know we can count on the support of the Constitutional Democrats in this effort."

He said that another Democratic president, Woodrow Wilson, relinquished his war powers just after the first world war ended. Martin said that "in contrast we find the present administration still seeking new war powers—plunging headlong into new tangles of bureaucratic red tape and government powers."

Martin said the nation was confronted by 15 long years of monetary inflation, which "has eaten away a little more than 40 per cent of the value of the American dollar."

He said a runaway inflation was the first threat to the nation's power and security and called for putting "federal finances in order on a tax basis which the people can sustain without sacrificing our bountiful system of free enterprise and the protections of orderly constitutional government."

"We must place the administrative branch of our government in the hands of men who believe in

CAMPAIGNER—House Speaker Joseph W. Martin jr., drives home a point in his campaign talk last night in John Simpson auditorium.

Martin Sees GOP Victory

Relates Views On Election

Affable Joe (Joseph W.) Martin, speaking as "one newspaperman to another," was a willing subject at an interview prior to his address here last night.

Martin, speaker of the U. S. House of Representatives, is publisher of the North Attleboro, Mass., Evening Chronicle. His comments made it apparent that he knows his way around in the newspaper business as well as in politics.

Interviewed at the Mansfield-Leland hotel yesterday afternoon, he readily answered nearly all questions except political ones. Those, he explained, would be fully answered in his address.

But, in the manner of most politicians, he did not entirely avoid the subject of politics. He predicted the Republicans will gain one or two seats in the Senate and 15 to 20 in the House.

Martin predicted, too, that Dewey would beat Truman in his own state, Missouri, though the race might be close in that state.

As for the eastern states where he toured recently, Martin said the GOP would "make a clean sweep" of those states.

Coming here from Indiana he predicted that that state would go "overwhelmingly Republican." He said the GOP would carry that state by 175,000 Martin predicted a Republican victory in Ohio.

Regarding the campaign, Martin said the main issue is "to keep the country sound and solvent and on the American track."

Martin said he was very proud of the record of J. Harry McGregor and said he had done "great work" in the House.

Martin stayed overnight at the Mansfield-Leland hotel and left today for Cleveland to see the world series game. Although the reporter forgot to ask him who he was for, North Attleboro happens to be his home town and that's in Massachusetts.

MEET AGAIN—Congressman J. Harry McGregor, left, and House Speaker Joseph W. Martin jr., often see each other in Washington, and they met again last night in Mansfield. Both spoke at a GOP rally in the John Simpson auditorium.

Opens Suitcase to Discover Loss

Elderly Man Loses Savings In Swindle

By GEORGE COMINOS

Frank Matisaca, 65, opened a small suit case yesterday to discover he had been swindled out of $3,000—his life savings—last June.

Matisaca told Sheriff Frank E. Robinson that on June 1 two men he had never seen before came to his home at Seventh avenue and Orange street.

He related that they showed him a large roll of money which Matisaca estimated at $10,000.

The sheriff said he had some difficulty in understanding Matisaca because of his broken English.

However, the sheriff said he learned from Matisaca that the two men, one saying he was from Ashland and the other from Texas, promised him that they could double his money.

They represented themselves as contractors who needed the money to close a contract, Matisaca said. Matisaca showed the sheriff a bank book, showing that he withdrew the $3,000 from the bank, leaving a small balance, the sheriff said.

One of the men had stayed at the house, while the other waited for him while he went to the bank, Matisaca told the sheriff.

MONEY IN BILLFOLD

They returned to the house, he continued, and one of the men took the $3,000, putting it in the billfold with the "$10,000."

They then put the billfold in a small suitcase, he said, locked it and told him to stay and watch it. They said they would return that night.

Matisaca said he kept the suitcase at his home, unopened, according to instructions, waiting for the men to come back. He became tired of waiting and finally opened it to find the savings gone.

He found an old newspaper two handkerchiefs and the billfold (empty), he told the sheriff. Matisaca, who retired recently as a laborer for the Erie railroad, receives a pension.

Sheriff Robinson surmised that some person who knew Matisaca, probably had indicated to the strangers that Matisaca had savings in the bank. One of them spoke his language, Slovak, the sheriff said

Mock Russian Officer Freed

SAN DIEGO, Cal —(UP)— Reporter John d'Alfonso got off today with a sharp scolding from federal officials for impersonating a Russian colonel at U. S. marine corps war maneuvers.

The San Diego Journal representative was picked up yesterday, wearing a Soviet uniform and speaking broken English. He moved along spectators watching a 3,500-man mock amphibious assault at Aliso canyon north of here.

Journal officials said they planned the hoax to test security precautions at the maneuvers.

Polio Kills Father

CELINA—(AP)—This city today recorded its second death from poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) in as many days. The latest victim was Paul Laux 27, father of two children, who died in St. Rita hospital at Lima.

Foreign Policy Issues Hold Attention of Candidates

(Compiled from Wire Dispatches)

ALBANY, N. Y.—The two major presidential candidates jockeyed today for position on foreign policy issues as they took brief respites from political campaigning.

President Truman hurried home to Washington for a conference with Secretary of State Marshall.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey studied fresh reports from John Foster Dulles, his foreign affairs adviser, on the progress of the Berlin blockade question and other international issues in the United Nations meeting at Paris

These reports came to Dewey at New York City through Allen Dulles, brother of the adviser, before the GOP presidential nominee returned last night to Albany for a quick cleanup of state business.

He is preparing to set out tomorrow night for another round of presidential campaign speaking, with the first formal speech at Pittsburgh Monday night.

In the Dewey camp it was contended unofficially that Mr. Truman's recall of Marshall for a report on the Paris developments was designed, in part, to offset the New York governor's action in having Dulles fly here earlier in the week for a personal briefing.

Both candidates were said by some politicians to be trying to impress the public with the attention they give every move in the troubled relations between the United States and Russia.

Meanwhile, at Seattle, Henry A. Wallace demanded today that President Truman and Gov. Dewey give "clear and unequivocal" statements of their views on foreign policy issues involving Germany, Spain and Israel.

In effect, the Progressive presidential candidate also called for withdrawal of the Berlin dispute from the United Nations and the revival of face-to-face negotiations with Russia on the entire German problem.

Wallace continued campaigning in Washington state today with speeches scheduled at party rallies this afternoon at Aberdeen and tonight at Tacoma. He will fly to Spokane tonight and then on to Minnesota tomorrow.

Churchill Airs War Warning

Urges U. S. To Keep Bomb

LLANDUDNO, Wales—(AP)—Winston Churchil said today the United States "would be guilty of murdering human freedom and committing suicide themselves" if it consented to destroy its stock of atomic bombs.

The former prime minister grimly declared he could not "encourage you with false hopes of a friendly settlement with Soviet Russia."

His speech was delivered at the Conservative party's annual conference.

Churchill declared the United Nations assembly "has been reduced to a mere cockpit in which the representatives of mighty nations and ancient states hurl reproaches, taunts and insults at one another to marshal public opinion and inflame the passions of their peoples in order to arouse and prepare them for what seems to be a remorselessly approaching third world war.

"Bolshevik Russia is already heavily armed and her forces in Europe far exceed those of all the western countries put together," he said.

"At the present time the only sure foundation of peace and of the prevention of actual war rests upon strength," he said.

"If it were not for the stocks of atomic bombs now in the trusteeship of the United States there would be no means of stopping the subjugation of western Europe by communist machinations backed by Russian armies and enforced by political parties."

CITES CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Britain's wartime leader cited Czechoslovokia as an example "where Stalin has perpetrated exactly the same acts of aggression in 1948 as Hitler did when he marched into Prague in 1939."

"It is part of the established technique of the 'cold war' the Soviets have begun against us all that in any country which has fallen into their power, people of character and personality, outstanding in any walk of life, from the manual worker to the university professor, shall be what is called in their savage jargon 'liquidated'," he said.

"All men, whatever their occupation, are to be reduced to a mediocre level so as to make it easy to govern them by commisars and masses of officials and police, all well trained in the communist colleges and dependent for their very existence upon the satisfaction they give their superiors in the party hierarchy.

120 Police Track Killer

CHICAGO —(UP)— Police today assigned 120 detectives and patrolmen to track down the murderer of William John Granata, powerful behind-the-scenes Republican politician.

The homicide squad released Anthony Durso, 25, a discharged Cook county highway policeman whom they picked up for questioning.

Police also questioned Isaiah (Chink) Mitchell, 37, a news vendor who apparently was the last person to speak with Granata before the candidate for the Cook county circuit court was slain early yestereday.

Granata was killed by someone who struck him several blows in the back of the head with some weapon similar to a machete or bolo knife. He was found dying in front of his loop apartment hotel.

LUTHERANS RECESS

FREMONT—(AP)—The American Lutheran convention recessed at noon today for the week end, and will resume sessions Monday morning.

Colorful Floats to Move Through City Tonight

Parade to Close Fire Prevention Week

The destructiveness of fire will be the symbol of the Fire Prevention week parade which will move through Mansfield's downtown area at 7:30 p. m. today.

Teen-ager Caroline McGinty, dressed as the Fifth Horseman of the Apocalypse — Fire, will head the parade. She will ride a white horse.

There will be industrial floats, Boy and Girl Scout marchers, and a truck hauling the 13 "fire demons" who wore red ties this week for identification.

The Senior high school band will set the marching pace of the paraders, as they leave Park avenue west and Bowman street, march east to Central park, around the park to Diamond, north on Diamond to Fourth street, west on Fourth to Main and south on Main to Central park where the parade will disband

Following the parade prizes will be awarded to the pupil winners in the poster contest, the fire loss guessing contest, for the best floats and the finest marching group.

There will be three prizes in the poster contest, $10, $5 and $2; three for the best floats, $25, $10 and $5; one of $10 for the guessing contest, and $5 for the best marching group.

Also given away tonight will be the merchandise gifts for the best entries in the soapbox fire truck contest, sponsored for 10-to-16-year-old boys.

Today's "fire demon" Walter Durant, was discovered the first thing this morning as he entered the Westinghouse plant. The lucky winner was Orville W Shoenfelt, Ashland road. He won the final fire extinguisher given out this week.

Street Fairs, Clambake In N-J Spotlight

This is the time of year when frost is in the air and street fairs enliven days and nights in many area towns. The Sunday News-Journal brings you a pictorial review of the Loudonville street fair, one of the best and largest in the state.

Have you ever been to a clambake? Well, our society editor went to one the other day and her report (illustrated with photos guaranteed to make your mouth water if you like clams) will appear in tomorrow's News-Journal.

Other features prepared for your Sunday morning pleasure include a description of the tribulations faced by Mansfield motorists while driving in the down-town area and a feature telling what taxicab drivers think of their passengers.

Neutrals Bid For Time to Patch Crisis

Request Council Meeting Delay

PARIS —(AP)— The "neutral" nations on the security council today were reported bidding for more time to press their efforts to patch up the east-west Berlin crisis.

The "little six" — Argentina, Colombia, Syria, Belgium, Canada and China—was understood to have moved to postpone a council meeting tentatively set for Monday to give mediation plans more time to jell.

The neutrals were reported weighing a direct appeal to the big four to settle their Berlin differences by mutual concession and cooperation. This new trend in the ticklish Berlin blockade was said to have emerged after the six "neutrals" heard a report from Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Bramuglia on his secret talks with Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

There was no immediate indication whether the western powers would be receptive to such a proposal. They have stressed repeatedly they would not negotiate with Russia under duress. It was not known what provisions the direct-appeal idea made for lifting the blockade.

Only clue to a possible softened Russian attitude, implying possible acceptance of some such appeal, is Bramuglia's optimism over his talks.

Bramguha was expected to see Dmitri Z. Manuilsky, foreign minister of the Soviet Ukraine, today and to continue his private talks over the week-end

The "little six" was understood to have swung over to the mediation plan after agreeing it would be fruitless to offer a demand that Russia end the blockade in view of the Soviet veto power in the council. There appeared to be little doubt Vishinsky would kill such a move.

Ohioans Turn Bridge Into Mane Street

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—A couple of brothers from Ohio have achieved fame, of sorts. They became the first civilians to cross the Golden Gate bridge by horse and buggy.

The two were Danny, 25, and Ray Peger, 21, ex-marines from Berea, Ohio.

Pursuing their leisurely course yesterday from the north, they rode out of the hills to the Marin county approach, smack into the 11-year-old bridge's "No Horses Permitted" rules.

"This is a very special case," said Daniel Del Carlo, president of the board of Golden Gate bridge commissioners. "They can pass."

It was a slow trip across. An official bridge car led the way. The official bridge tow truck brought up the rear.

The Peger brothers, after an auto trip through Alaska and Canada, abandoned the car at Yakima, Wash., and bought four horses. They picked up the buggy near Coos Bay, Ore.

They intend to be in Los Angeles for the Rose Bowl game and in New Orleans for the Mardi Gras.

Draftees Will Start Training

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The army announced yesterday that Ohio's first draftees under the new selective service act will begin their training at Fort Knox, Ky., next month.

Neither the army nor selective service could give the number from Ohio in the initial draft.

President Goes Back To Capital

Top Officials Hold Parley

WASHINGTON —(UP)— President Truman and Secretary of State George C. Marshall met in urgent conference today to settle definitely whether a special "peace mission" should be dispatched to Moscow.

The President cut short an eastern campaign swing and Marshall flew home from the United Nations meeting in Paris. Mr. Truman met Marshall at the airport and they drove to the White House together.

President Truman had proposed that Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson be sent to Moscow to meet with Generalissimo Josef Stalin to try to settle American-Russian differences —much as Harry L. Hopkins did in 1945 when there was a deadlock over selection of a place to hold the United Nations organization conference.

Marshall reportedly opposed the plan, and forced at least a postponement. His discussions with the president were expetced to produce a final show-down on whether Vinson should absent himself from the Supreme court briefly and go to Russia.

Mr. Truman's train pulled into the capital a little before Marshall landed at National airport in the President's plane.

MEETS SECRETARY

The President drove from the railroad station to the airport to meet the secretary. When Marshall stepped out of the plane, Mr. Truman grasped his hand.

"Thanks for coming down," Marshall told the President. "I appreciate it very much."

Marshall then asked, "how are you doing?"

"Fine," the President replied.

The President, Marshall and Acting Secretary of State Robert C. Lovett then entered a car and drove swiftly to the White House.

Newsmen had no opportunity to question either the President or Marshall at the airport.

Marshall looked grim and tired, in contrast to the smiling, jovial President.

Upon the President's arrival at union station, he had been asked if he had anything to say about his proposal to send Vinson to see Stalin.

"Not a word," the President said.

However, this was known: The White House abruptly dropped plans for a radio broadcast last Tuesday night in which Mr. Truman was to have announced that he was sending Vinson to Moscow as his personal emissary to discuss the Berlin blockade. Marshall reportedly brought about that change in plans.

The White House, in announcing that Marshall was returning from Paris to meet with the President, said the recall was prompted by "no particular crisis." A state department spokesman, however, said that Marshall proposed to discuss "Matters of considerable importance."

Death Takes Stearns Baby

An ailing, four month-old Willard baby whose week-long struggle for life at the Mansfield General hospital stirred the hearts of the hospital staff, died yesterday in its sleep

Born with a faulty abdominal development, Vicki Lynn Stearns, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Jack Stearns of Willard, died at the hospital.

Surgeons last week performed a delicate operation on the child in an attempt to save her life.

The child is survived, in addition to her parents, by two sisters, Nancy Sue and Jacqueline, and one brother, Billy, all at the home in Willard; and the grandparents, Mr and Mrs. W J. Kenne and Mr. and Mrs. H. H Stearns, also of Willard

Services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Fink funeral home in Willard with Rev. G. C. Heffelfinger officiating. Burial will be in the Willard cemetery.

SPAIN INVITED

MADRID —(UP)— The United States embassy announced today that Spain has been invited to attend an international conference on northwest Atlantic fishing which will be held in Washington next January.

Mrs. Kasenkina's Story—No. 14

Qualifies For Job In Far-Off U. S. A.

By OKSANA S. KASENKINA

"See America and die."

All my life this was my innermost dream, as it remains the devout hope of millions of my countrymen. Yet when the shattering news of the loss of my son reached me in Gorki, hardly a month after America's entry into the war on the side of Soviet Russia, I did not expect that at the war's end I would be headed for the United States.

The Germans carried the war even to Gorki where a big automobile manufacturing plant is located. One night when I was teaching school, about 10 in the evening there was an air raid. Before we had time to find shelter, a bomb exploded nearby and a splinter fractured my right arm. I carried it in a cast for almost a month.

It was not until the battle of Stalingrad was over, when the German tide which had swept over my native Donetz country was turned back, that I returned to Moscow. Everywhere I saw evidence of American lend-lease supplies from long caravans of tanks to canned ham which became the Red Army delicacy.

I reported to the Commissariat of Education and was assigned to the Stchukin School situated some 40 miles south of the capital in what was formerly a famous landed estate. It was here that I received word, shortly after my home city of Slavyansk had been evacuated by the enemy, of the death of my father during the war. My mother had passed away earlier.

I secured permission, with great difficulty, to go to Slavyansk. My father had owned our little home, and having lost all my belongings in the first onslaught of the war, I was anxious to take possession of the house and see if I could salvage some family belongings, especially as I had been robbed three times during 1943 alone.

Thefts and hold-ups became routine for the residents of Moscow in those days. To be stripped of your coat, purse and bundles in any street of the capital, except the main avenues in the center, was common. But there were many cases, and I witnessed some myself, of persons stripped naked in the street by gangs of marauders to whom even underwear was marketable loot.

HOPES FOR WORD OF SON

I was hoping against hope, even when I visited Slavyansk, that somebody there might have word of my missing son. I found my sistea Anya, whose husband had been purged, among the survivors of the German occupation. The center of the town, where many battles had raged, was a heap of rubble. Everywhere were signs of Nazi atrocities.

I learned of many innocents who had been executed by the invaders, some because they had at one time or another belonged to the Communist Party or held positions of responsibility in the Soviet service. Yet we knew that there were Communist cardholders and Soviet officials who hated the Soviet regime, but kept up appearances to earn a livelihood.

A Soviet commission of inquiry was exhuming the corpses of the Nazi victims and collecting evidence of German crimes. At the same time there was a hunt on for collaborationists, and again innocents suffered.

I knew a fine engineer who had come from Kiev to try to save his sister. The girl had been denounced for consorting with the Germans stationed in Slavyansk, and was condemned to penal servitude in Siberia. The brother was sharply told to keep out of the case and go back to his his post. Upon his arrival in Kiev, he was demoted and put to work as a common laborer.

The great church of Slavyansk which in the early days of the Bolshevik upheaval had been shut and converted into a motion picture theatre, was reopened by the Germans as a church. And now the communist authorities allowed it to function as such! This was during the war, when Stalin was capitalizing before the world on his policy of religious freedom. I even witnessed at Slavyansk a conclave of priests from the entire region, but whether the church is still open for services these days I do not know.

Upon my return to Moscow I served for more than a year as a substitute teacher, filling in wherever an instructor was needed in botany, zoology or other branches of the natural sciences. The director of the schools in the Timiriazev district where I lived and worked was Karsavina, an outstanding woman educator, who soon elevated me to the position of supervisor for six schools. I guided there the inexperienced teachers in my field of knowledge.

LIST REQUESTED

One day in the fall of 1945 Karsavina received a call to submit half a dozen names of highly qualified instructors of unquestioned social origin for duty abroad. It meant that only persons hailing from workers or Communist families would be considered.

This call was an event. We knew that the Soviet government had established special schools in America, France and other countries for the children of our foreign staffs. A faint hope stirred within me at the thought of America, but I stifled it.

And then I got an assignment from Karsavina to take over the demoralized school of the Peter Alexeiev textile mill, employing over 1,000 workers, mostly women. Several teachers had tried to organize it and failed, she told me. I quickly discovered why. The class rooms were unheated, moldy, horribly filthy. The children were truant because they were hungry, and were either begging for food or trading some stolen article for bread. I threw myself into the challenging task with enthusiasm.

I persuaded the factory authorities to turn the workers' clubhouse into schoolrooms. Then I made a strenuous effort to get some clothes and footwear for the ragged and barefooted urchins, and was able to outfit a few of them.

An then, when classes began to attract some attendants, I argued the authorities who operated the factory lunchroom into feeding the youngsters. All that the children got daily was a bowl of very thin barley soup with one spoonful of mashed potatoes. But the bait worked like a charm. The children knew that the price of attendance was this hot "meal".

Soon Karsavina informed me that my name, with a characterization, had been submitted by her to the school division of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs for service abroad. I later realized that my assignment to the factory school was a test for that rarest of all opportunities that come to a Soviet citizen—permission to go abroad and perhaps to America.

Speak At Conference

The annual missionary conference of the Mansfield Gospel Center will begin Sunday night and continue through Oct. 17.

Rev. Mark H. Senter jr., pastor of the church, has chosen as his sermon subject for the opening night of the conference, "Why Preach to the Heathen." Miss Ann Bell, home missionary of the church, will give a report at the first meeting.

Special speakers for the conference include E. J. Pudney of the Unevangelized Fields Mission, L. E. Brown of the Navajo Indian Gospel Crusade in Arizona who will present a display of curios and handwork from that field; Irvine Robertson of the Ceylon and India General Mission, Howard A. Kramer of the Cleveland Hebrew Christian Society, Ward Weaver of Athens, Tenn., and Rev. Ralph H. Mount, pastor of the Pleasant Valley Baptist church.

Kramer will give a special talk Tuesday night, explaining the Day of Atonement which falls on Wednesday. Weaver will sing the same evening.

Rev. Mount will give four talks on the "Tabernacle in the Wilderness," using one of his scale models to illustrate.

Members of the church choir will present special music at the conference.

Choir Offers Sunday Recital

In place of the usual Sunday night sermon at the First Lutheran church, the choir will present a special program of music under the direction of A. Lemoine Derr.

The vespers will start at 7:30 p m. They will include the following numbers: "How Beautiful Upon the Mountain," by Harker, sung by the choir, "Seek Ye the Lord," by Roberts, sung by Miss Erma Jenkins; "O Divine Redeemer," by Gounod, sung by Miss Jean Robinson; "The Lord Is My Strength," by Harris, presented by the choir.

Other numbers will be: "Great is Thy Never Failing Love," by Ackley, sung by Mrs. Alice Cashell; "Bless This House," by Brahe, sung by Charles Young; "Greater Love," by Maxwell, sung by Dimon Herring; "I Sought the Lord," by Stevenson, sung by Mrs. Wanda Donnan and "Blessed is the Nation," with the choir.

Simpson Tries Music In Drawing Classrooms

By JANE GERMANY and SANDRA NICHOLS

Music is supposed to have a soothing effect on the nerves and provide a stimulus for workers.

Students in the mechanical drawing classes at John Simpson are going to see for themselves.

Their teacher, Hobart Lime, has provided soft music while the students work. It's a new idea at Simpson, and everybody is interested in learning how the experiment works out.

The "Times" has been invited to contribute news features to "Student Life," a National Honor Society magazine.

Dick Guy, newly-appointed staff photographer, took pictures for all cuts in the Oct. 8 issue of the "Times."

The English council members from John Simpson are Louise Lynch, Catherine Darling, Elsie McFadden, Helen Perrill, Mary Carothers, Anna Knote, Gladys Lane, Frances Schultz and Mabel Ferguson.

Gilbert Severson has been out of school since Oct. 1 due to illness and Mrs. Rosalie Stewart has been substituting for him.

IT'S A THREAT

Boys who parked their bicycles on the east side of the annex instead of in the right place have found their bicycles gone. Mr. Lime has taken them inside the building and says that if the boys don't come and get them immediately, he is going to start a second hand bicycle shop.

The ninth grade art classes are starting textile painting and they are turning out some nice luncheon sets, handkerchiefs and T shirts. Fae Sotherland directs these classes.

Instrumental director Donald Tennant has 40 students taking instrumental lessons this year.

Simpson-Appleseed football programs are in charge of Miss Angeline Smilanich and Edwin Cooper of John Simpson. In them will be pictures of Simpson and Appleseed teams, the queens and attendants of both schools, Simpson and Appleseed cheerleaders, majorettes and the bands.

Supersalesmen who won prizes for selling the most Booster-membership tickets to Madison-Simpson game are Mary Chronister, first; Harry Welsh, second, and Garnett Scott and Mary Boyd, tied for third. Winners were announced by Mr. Wilbur Young, faculty manager.

Noon movies are in charge of student projection and stage crews. Larry Harper leads projectionists for 48-49, assisted by Don Geib, Dave Letizia, Floyd Miles, Jack Lehman and Ronnie Reed.

Stage head is Jim Welker and his assistants are Jack Knight, Kenneth Haverfield, Phillip Gaubatz, Freddie Bair and Jim Daugherty. Faculty director is William Blank.

Simpson students and faculty have declared war on discourtesy in any form, bean shooters, rubber bands and paper wads, paper on floor, marks on desks, tardiness to school or classes, marks on wall and unprepared assignments.

Students in classes and study halls at Simpson listened in on parts of the world series baseball games over the school P. A. system.

Arthur Lomax and Gene Rodney, eighth, are new reporters on the "Times" editorial staff.

Busy Week For Church

Next week will be an important one at the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. A School of Missions will be conducted at the church Wednesday and Friday nights by Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert W. Schroer of St. Louis, Mo. Thursday, the Northwest Ohio Synod will hold its fall meeting at the church.

The School of Missions will start Wednesday with a covered dish supper at 6:30 p. m. Following supper, teachers will be introduced to Dr. and Mrs. Schroer and materials presented. Adults will meet with Mrs. Schroer, the senior high and young adults with Dr. Schroer. Grades three, four, five and six, and junior high groups will meet with appointed teachers.

After a 50-minute session a sound film in technicolor, "A Letter From China," will be presented. Friday night, Dr. J. Campbell White and Rev. and Mrs. I. E. Oberholtzer, all of Mansfield, will participate in a forum discussion. The showing of the picture "My Name Is Han," will conclude the program.

Theme of the synod meeting on Thursday will be "The Church Advances." I twill open at 9 a. m. with devotional services in charge of Rev. R. W. Blemker of Bascom. Rev. John C. Gieser of Milwaukee, Wis., will speak at 9:55 a. m., followed by a panel talk by Dr. Ralph S. Weiler, of Philadelphia; Mrs. H. L. V. Shinn, of Toledo, and Dr. Arnold E. Klick, of Columbus. Their topic will be "Our Share In the Advance of the Church."

Group conferences will open the afternoon sessions at 2 p. m. Discussion leaders include Rev. R. J. Loew, vice president of the Northwest Ohio Synod from Wapakoneta; Rev. Gieser, Dr. John W. Myers, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mrs. John C. Melchert, of the Mansfield church, and Rev. Ivan D. Immel, Bucyrus.

At 3:10 p. m. the synod meets in plenary session followed by two speakers, each choosing one phase of the general theme. Rev. Frank L. Fesperman of St. Louis, Mo., and Rev. C. Kent Chidester, of Toledo, will be the speakers.

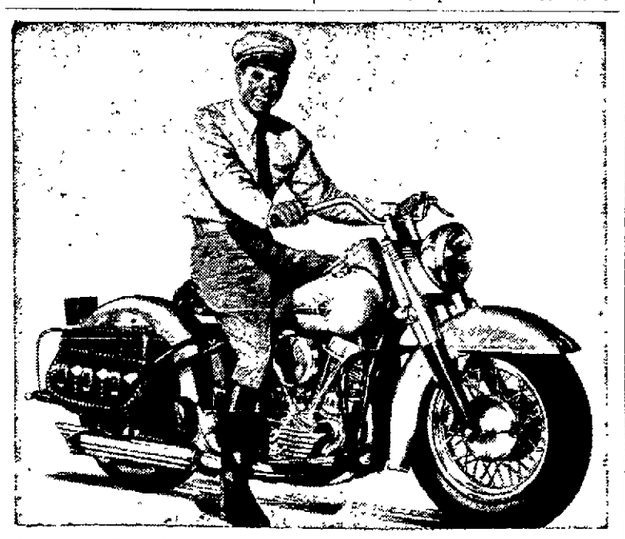
An open forum, lead by Dr. Shinn, president of the Northwest Ohio synod, from Toledo, will take place at 4 p. m. followed by the commitment by Rev. Geiser.

Death Cause Undetermined

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Ohio State university pathologists said today it might be several days before the exact cause of death of Mrs. Dorothy Lawson, 57, Dayton, could be established.

Mrs. Lawson's partially decomposed body was found near the Miami river in Dayton, Sept. 21.

Dayton police meanwhile said they planned to continue questioning of Louis Hoffman, a janitor, who said he carried her body to the spot where it was found after she died in the building where he worked.



1949 MODEL—Here's the 1949 overhead valve model of the Harley-Davidson motorcycle which will be on display at the Woodie Kimes sales room, 148 North Main street. Three new colors have been introduced for the 1949 line: they are burgundy, peacock blue, and metallic congo green.

Jackie Tells Story of His Career

Dodger First Baseman Writes of His Life

"Jackie Robinson, My Own Story," is one of 19 new books which will be available at the Mansfield Public library Monday.

This non-fiction selection will be of particular interest to baseball fans. It is the autobiography of the young Negro first baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers. The book tells the story of his baseball career and how it felt to be the first of his race to play in the major leagues.

PRIZE HOMES is a new book of house plans published for the Chicago Tribune's Prize Home competition. There are 92 floor plans for small and medium sized dwellings, with attractive sketches of the houses themselves. Many are modern in design.

YOUR SOLAR HOUSE is an unusual book of house plans prepared by 49 of America's leading architects in cooperation with the Libby-Owens-Ford Glass company. There are 49 sets of plans for solar houses for all parts of the country. All were designed to cost under $15,000.

THE AFRICAN VIOLET, by Helen Van Pelt Wilson, is the first book to be written about America's most popular house plant. It includes descriptions of 68 varieties and discusses soil, watering, humidity, growing from seed, pest control, and many other items of interest to violet fanciers.

Other non-fiction:

JUST AND DURABLE PARENTS, by Ellenwood; CHILDREN AND RELIGION, by Chapman; YOUR BABY, THE COMPLETE BABY BOOK FOR MOTHERS AND FATHERS, by Shultz and Hill; ART OF HOOKED RUG MAKING, by Batchelder; BEST OF ART, by Genauer; FUNDAMENTALS OF CARPENTRY, VOLS. I and II, by Durbahn; POWER GOLF, by Hogan; GROWTH REGULATORS FOR GARDEN, FIELD, AND ORCHARD, by Mitchell & Marth, APPLIED JOB EVALUATION, By Stanway.

THE OLD BEAUTY AND OTHERS, by Willa Cather, contains three stories which are the final work of the matchless artist of DEATH COMES FOR THE ARCHBISHOP. Not comparable to her best work, these brief sketches use the Nebraska and Canadian backgrounds of her early novels.

THE SKY AND THE FOREST, by C. S. Forester, is the life story of an African native, Loa, god and king of a small jungle village. Arab slavers invade Loa's village after years of isolation and carry him off. Restored to his village he lived in peace until white men invaded the land again.

THE PRECIPICE, by Hugh MacLennan, is the story of Lucy Cameron, a Canadian girl from the quiet surroundings of a small Ontario town. She falls in love with Stephen Lassiter, a young and wealthy New Yorker. How her innate dignity and poise helped her to adjust herself to city living makes an interesting and absorbing story.

WORLD WITHOUT VISA, by Jean Malaquais, is a translation from the French. During the months between the beginning of the Vichy regime and the occupation of Marseilles by the Germans, the city swarmed with displaced French from the occupied zone, refugees from other countries, and residents seeking to feather their own nests. The fear driven lives of a dozen groups are followed more or less independently.

Other fiction: THE WITNESS FOR THE PROSECUTION, by Christie; O. HENRY MEMORIAL AWARD PRIZE STORIES OF 1948.

28 Bonding Firms Face State Suit

COLUMBUS — (UP) — The attorney general's office today threatened to sue 28 bonding companies for $113,000 if $1,000 bonds put up in applications for private club permits are not paid by Oct. 13.

The bonding companies were notified that they must either pay in full by Wednesday or suits to collect the money will be filed.

SPEAKS SUNDAY—Rev. Max H. Good, Columbus, will speak at the annual homecoming of the Caesarea Christian church near Little Washington Sunday afternoon. There will be a basket dinner at noon and Rev. Good and his staff of co-workers will have charge of the afternoon service. The all-day event is open to the public.

Ex-Inmate Talks Here

Former Prisoner Tells of Conversion

"From Prison to Pulpit," the subject which Rev. Anthony Zeoli will use for his sermon tomorrow night at the Grace Gospel church, is not a figment of his imagination.

It is based on factual experience of Rev Zeoli.

"My mother died when I was a young boy," Rev. Zeoli related yesterday. "Like many boys, I got in with the wrong gang and began committing petty crimes. Finally, I started taking drugs. Those were the days before the Harrison law when boys could get it. Conviction for a hold-up landed me in the Eastern State Penitentiary at Philadelphia."

It was while there that Rev. Zeoli was converted.

"It was just chance that caused a sister-in-law to send me a New Testament," Rev. Zoeli recalled. "I began reading it with another prisoner who had been saved I can even recall the verse that caused me to become a Christian. It was John 5:24. The day was Oct. 22, 1920 That was a big day, one of the biggest in my life."

"After I became converted I had the privilege of preaching to the other prisoners and of converting several."

Rev. Zeoli came out of the prison a happier man He obtained a steady job at the Evening Bulletin in Philadelphia, working as a stereotypist and saving his money for schooling. But even before he entered the Pennsylvania School of the Bible at Philadelphia he began preaching. Later he was ordained into the Baptist church at Cambridge, Mass.

Since that time I have gone up and down the east coast preaching the Gospel. I have been doing it for the past 23 years. My wife, who sings, went with me until our boy came. We have a son 16 years old. It has been a grand life and I have been a very happy man."

Rev. James E. Davey, at whose church Rev. Zeoli has been preaching this week, heard him in Toronto 20 years ago.

"About a year ago I drove 100 miles to hear him again," Rev. Davey said. "He was preaching in Dr. Ziemer's church in Toledo. It was then I made arrangements for him to come to Mansfield."

Rev. Zeoli preaches his last sermon at the church tomorrow night, preaching at both morning and afternoon services as well.

Wrong Impression
Many people think funerals at The Wolford Funeral Home are quite expensive. It is a natural thing for people to believe this because of our unusually fine services, facilities and equipment. Actually funerals at Wolford's cost no more and often times less because we are more interested in maintaining good will and creating new friends.

PAGE FOUR — MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1948

Drive carefully tomorrow — and remember that you'll soon need some anti-freeze in the radiator.

As one of the Per Capita family you are supposed to be carrying $190.96 in your pocket—and if you're going to the grocery store or meat market you'll need every cent of it.

It is interesting to note that, according to scientists, hurricanes are much more powerful than the atom bomb—but, as nearly as can be learned, Russia makes no claim to control of this force.

Lack of Funds Hampers Child Care

THAT OLD BUGABOO—"lack of funds"—seems more at fault in Richland county's handling of problems related to child welfare than any other factor mentioned in the survey recently made by representatives of the State Welfare Department.

An illuminating revelation of the report on the survey is that ONLY THREE of the 129 children being cared for, either in the children's home or under other arrangements, are ACTUAL ORPHANS! Death of the father accounts for presence of 13 of the children, and in five instances the mother is dead—totaling 21 and leaving 108 otherwise accounted for.

These include 41 whose parents are classified as "divorced, separated or deserted"; and 30 cases in which "one or both parents remarried," leaving children to public care.

It can thus be seen that "broken homes" are responsible for a large percentage of costs thrown upon taxpayers for operation of child welfare facilities and that actual orphanage plays only a small part in the complications that have arisen in the handling of this phase of public service.

Then, too, as criticism is directed toward the County Child Welfare board, it need be taken into account that members of this board, who serve without pay, are required to give much time and study to this task, and that changes, under a new law, have added greatly to troublesome readjustments of procedure.

Those familiar with handicaps of insufficient qualified help at the children's home, and the overcrowding of that institution, recognize the difficulties under which the superintendent and matron have been required to work, and there is real hope that adoption of some of the recommendations made in the survey report will be made possible by apportionment of sufficient money to secure and retain qualified help at the home, and to carry through some of the recommended improvements in the present building.

Memorable Date Divides Honors

REMEMBER that date, February 12—it somehow has a familiar ring—why sure enough, that's the birthday anniversary of John L. Lewis, and it is hereafter to be observed as a holiday by all members of the United Mine Workers union, of which Lewis is head.

But let's see now, isn't February 12 already a red letter day on the calendar for some other reason? Yes, yes, now we recall, it is also the birthday anniversary of Abraham Lincoln, which gives it a holiday aspect—but apparently not sufficient to warrant the recognition it may hereafter be expected to be given by mine workers, who will probably observe it as a non-working holiday.

So, in thinking of February 12 as a birthdate, you are privileged to take your choice of the person being honored—Abraham Lincoln or John L. Lewis.

Those 'Give Away' Radio Programs

OBJECTIONS to the extent to which "give away" programs have invaded the field of radio entertainment appear in a variety of ways, a local example being found in the current issue of the weekly bulletin of the First Presbyterian church, in which the pastor, Rev. David N. Roller, expresses his views on this subject.

Following an introduction in which he says "give away" programs have increased "to such alarming extent that other worthwhile programs are being robbed of their listeners," Rev. Roller maintains that: "Such things are symptoms of a destructive attitude that is gradually gaining ground in our country. It is the tragic loss of personal responsibility, initiative and desire to work—relying on the government or some outside force to give us what we want without working for it."

He also makes reference to the associated idea portrayed by Little Abner, in the popular comic strip, who "drives in a flock of Schmoos so that the people of Dogpatch will never have to work again."

Claims To 'Discovery' of America

THE HIGHEST tribute to any achievement is to have other people claim it as their own. This is one way to test the importance of the discovery of America by Columbus, supposing that its importance were doubted. Almost every nationality has maintained that America was discovered by one of their own long before Columbus.

Danes, Irish, Welsh, French, Arabs, Chinese, Japanese, Malays and even Africans have urged that theirs is the nationality of the real discoverer. It is now known that Leif Ericson and other Norsemen came to this continent in the year 1000, but the knowledge of this feat did not reach the rest of Europe, so their discovery did not open the New World.

Apart from the Norsemen, it is not improbable that some humble sailors may have encountered the New World through accident, and either failed to understand the significance of their discovery, or else had their story drop out of sight. The tradition which reports the Labrador cod banks to have been found, before Columbus, by fishermen of the French town of Dieppe, may have some basis.

It is not enough, however, merely to find a new world. It must be made known. Others may have preceded Columbus in his discovery, but nothing came of it. It was his voyage that added permanently to the world's geographical knowledge, and therein is the true glory of Columbus.

The Kansas City Star expresses the view: "Between the programs of giving 'em hell and giving 'em unity a good majority of the citizens seem already to have made up their minds."

Now at an early teen-age, the Dionne quints are no longer attracting tourist trade to Callender—but give them another few years and eligible young men will probably start crowding around.

Who can remember when a very serviceable watch could be bought for one of the same-sized dollars now expended for a pound of fairly edible meat?

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Presidential Campaign Is Becoming Dull

THE IRONICAL thing about the Dewey-Warren plea for unity is that the more the plea is accepted, the less there is to talk about. The end result of achieving peace and unity is complete uniformity, and uniformity is not exciting.

This campaign started too early and is destined to last too long. But there is nothing to do about it. The candidates must make appearances; their trains must move; news must be printed; and contributions must be collected.

There has been no presidential campaign like this for many years. When Bryan used to run, there was a show—even though the Great Commoner was always ticketed for defeat. When T. R., Wilson or F. D. R. were on the scene, there was color and excitement. When Smith ran against Hoover, 20 years ago, he drew large crowds, although everyone, except perhaps Smith himself, knew he had no chance.

This year, those who must write about politics, those who must manage politics, those who must keep on running for President, and the public generally must look forward with dismay at having to play out the schedule when the outcome is no longer in doubt. It is like a pennant race in which one team is 20 games ahead in July.

This unmistakable apathy is mostly due to Dewey's great advantage. There is not only the virtual certainty that Dewey will be elected. There is the pitiful fact that Truman could not do what he promises, even if he were elected.

The election of Truman would be a mandate for nothing. It would merely show that the country agrees that the 80th Congress was bad. So what? Repeal the Taft-Hartley Act? Even so, that is no program for a brave, newly-re-elected administration.

* * *

What Would Truman Do?

FOR ALL of Truman's truculence, he has not created the impression of a man who, if elected, would present an affirmative program to the country. He is against Wall Street and reactionaries. But what would he do about Wall Street and reactionaries, if elected? Keep them for the next election, presumably, as villains for his play.

This is not because Truman would have a hostile Congress. It is because he would have nothing much to suggest for Congress to oppose. The public realizes this, and its reaction is total indifference.

The Wallace parade is dwindling down to a vague, nondescript scattering of the perpetually dissatisfied. While the prospect of a Wallace vote in the spring was about 5,000,000 and in early September had dropped to 3,000,000, it is hard now to see where he can get 2,000,000.

There is no reality to the Wallace protest. Few can believe his charges and if they did, they would still have no reason to vote for him.

Dewey and Warren are the beneficiaries of this frustrated opposition. They are also its victims. It leaves very little to talk about. Unity and prosperity are all right for a while, but as concepts they elicit no enthusiasm. There is measurable unity at the heart of the country, but it is like the atmosphere you breathe without comment or reflection.

There are senatorial races which will come to life in a few states, but they cannot stir the whole country.

So let us reconcile ourselves to a fairly dull period before the election. The World Series will help for a while. And then there will be football and autumn walks.

Hope Pinned On Big Vote

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — Democratic hopes to recapture the presidency for Harry S. Truman, admittedly slim at best, are predicated upon a huge turnout of voters on election day, much larger than in any past year.

This is no secret. The President, himself, has confessed it in a loud voice from the back platform of his special train wherever he has appeared in this campaign.

He not only has appealed for people to get registered and vote, but has bluntly lectured them on this civic duty by pointing out that only a third of them took the trouble to go to the polls in the 1946 congressional elections.

"And look what you got — that 80th do-nothing Republican Congress!" he adds. "If you don't get out and vote this year you'll deserve what you get."

This is his own personal political moral for the get-out-the-vote campaign. Past experience has demonstrated that a large vote helps the Democrats, especially a large vote in the big cities which provided the margin in the last two Roosevelt victories after farmers began to drift back to their traditional Republicanism with the return of prosperity.

The Roosevelt victory pattern was made up of the Solid South and the big cities which swung the large eastern and industrial midwestern states with their sizeable electoral votes.

Because of this successful design in the past, it was therefore bad news for Democratic strategists when books in New York City closed last week with a total registration of only 3,321,782, which was only slightly better than the 3,217,731 of 1944 and under the 3,390,000 of 1940.

* * *

Reflects National Apathy.

AS WELL as for its meaning in key New York City and state, this statistic has significance also in the national picture.

Dr. George Gallup, the polling expert, has made an analysis of the last eight national elections, congressional and presidential, which shows a relationship between New York City registration and the total national vote in subsequent national elections.

From 1932 to 1946, the total national vote ranged from 17 to 12.7 times New York City's registration.

Taking the year of the biggest national vote, 1944, when the figure was 14.7 times New York City's registration, and above the average for the eight years, which is 14.54, and applying it to the registration this year would forecast a total vote of 48,380,195. That is better than four years ago, when the total vote, excluding soldiers, was 45,400,000, but less than the 49,901,835 of 1940.

Democrats, were talking this year in terms of 55,000,000 to 60,000,000 votes. The much lower probable total seems to bear out the apathy which is manifest in the failure of either President Truman or Governor Dewey to arouse much excitement this year, as was observed by this reporter on the first campaign trips of both candidates.

The cold statistical picture would seem, too, to provide another exhibit of what has happened to the Democratic party. The big city vote which was so helpful to Democrats in the past was due to a turnout of labor and to the effective precinct work directed by big city bosses.

But only three months ago big city bosses and labor leaders were allied, along with the South, to kick Harry Truman off the Democratic ticket.

As they go about now trying to stir up enthusiasm for him they are compelled to eat their words of not many weeks ago.

They made a show of closing ranks after the convention though some labor trekked off after Henry Wallace and John L. Lewis is again throwing his anathemas at the President, no new exercise for him. But the start was late and slow and the New York registration would indicate that the spadework has not been as successful, and perhaps not as earnest, as is necessary this year.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Election Could Shift Congress Control

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE 1948 campaign for the presidency of the United States is at midpoint this week.

President Truman and Governor Dewey, rival nominees of the major parties, relaxed briefly after their transcontinental tours then started out again. Both appear to be standing up well under the physical rigors of campaigning.

The President stumped through Delaware, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and upstate New York, then conferred on the international crisis with Secretary Marshall whom he called back from Paris.

Gov. Dewey talked in Albany with John Foster Dulles, his foreign affairs expert, who also flew back from Paris. He will hit the road again in about a week with a major speech scheduled for next Friday in St. Paul.

That swing may take him through the border states and Kentucky and West Virginia, which Mr. Truman visited on the last lap of his coast-to-coast tour.

Heavy Itinerary.

The President's two-week tour took him more than 8,000 miles through 19 states. He made some 140 speeches and estimated he saw between two and three million people. Gov. Dewey rolled 8,800 miles through 14 states and made about 60 speeches in the same period.

In Washington at the close of his trip, Mr. Truman said, "I have just begun to fight." He said voters were beginning to wake up to the fact that "this is a real crusade—it's the people against the special interests."

Discounting polls which show Gov. Dewey leading in straw votes, Mr. Truman said, "It isn't important who is ahead at one time or another in either an election or a horse race. It's the horse that comes in first at the finish that counts."

Key Congressional Races.

There is a growing realization by the public of the importance of the congressional races. Quite apart from the outcome of the presidential contest, Democrats have a chance to regain control of the Senate.

The present Senate is composed of 51 Republicans and 45 Democrats. With 32 seats to be filled in November, the Democrats could take back control of the Upper House by holding their own and taking just four seats from the Republicans.

Seventeen of the 32 senatorships to be decided are held by Republicans, 15 by Democrats. Eleven of the 15 Democratic seats are from the South and unlikely to change. There are hot contests for a number of seats now held by Republicans.

Eight Senate contests are regarded as crucial. They are in West Virginia, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Illinois, Montana, New Mexico, Minnesota and Wyoming.

At Home

About Meat Prices.

There will be little change in meat prices next year, despite temporary fluctuations, says the department of agriculture, unless the public cuts down on buying meat.

Next year's per capita meat consumption will be between 140 and 145 pounds, agricultural experts say. This compares with 145 pounds this year, 155 in 1947 and 134 during 1937-41.

The present slump in meat production should come to an end during 1949. Bumper feed crops this year are an incentive to farmers to raise cattle. A short corn crop last year curtailed production.

If consumers spend as much for meat in relation to incomes in 1949 as they did in prewar years, meat prices could weaken moderately, department experts say. But even in this event, prices would be high by all past standards—above any year except 1948.

* * *

September Building.

September set another new monthly building record with a total of $1,804,000,000—a 1 per cent rise over August and 27 per cent over September a year ago.

The department of commerce said the September figure raised the value of new construction begun in 1948 to 13 billion dollars—34 per cent higher than the total for the first nine months of record-setting 1947.

Private housing in September totaled 685 million dollars, 1 per cent below August but 27 per cent higher than September, 1947.

There were increases over August, however, in public construction and private building for business use. Business use building amounted to 342 million dollars and privately-owned utilities spent another 254 million on new construction.

* * *

Study Food Intake.

Cornell University is studying the diet of the township of Groton, N. Y. (population 3,879) as a clue to how well America eats.

For one week, 300 families are carefully listing all the food they eat, its cost and whether it was grown or purchased. Daily table records are being kept of how much each member of the family puts away.

Groton makes an excellent test tube, Cornell professors say, because it is a "typical American community." The township includes the villages of Groton, McLean, Peruville and West Dryden. There is some heavy industry, farming and commercial activity. In addition, it is only 15 miles from the Cornell campus at Ithaca.

* * *

Allen's Alley Fight.

Fred Allen, the dour radio comedian, has started a one-man crusade against "give-away" programs. In self-defense, he says, he has insured his listeners for up to $5,000 against the loss of any prize they might win by staying tuned to some other program.

Allen says there are so many programs giving away things many people have stopped listening to comedians.

Conceding that he expects to lose something through the bonding, Allen remarked that "the risk has been established to everyone's satisfaction, and where there's a risk, someone will lose."

Allotments and Loans.

The American foreign aid program is beginning its second six months of operation. Already more than two billion dollars has been allotted to participating countries but only one loan of $2,300,000 has been completed.

Congress, in appropriating funds for European recovery, said at least $1,000,000,000 of the Economic Cooperation Administration's total funds of $5,055,000,000 must go for loans.

Moving into its third quarter, ECA has allotted almost half of its money available for outright grants but little more than one five-hundredth of that available for loans.

Abroad

Battling For Berlin.

Russia fought this week to keep the Berlin issue off the security council agenda but was outvoted 9 to 2. Only the delegate of the Soviet Ukraine voted with Andrei Vishinsky, the Russian deputy foreign minister. Then Russia announced she would boycott the Berlin debate.

Two years ago, Andrei Gromyko, then the Soviet U.N. delegate, walked out of a council debate and stayed in seclusion for two weeks. That was in the Iranian case when Russia tried vainly to bar charges against her from the security council calendar in New York.

Western diplomats feel, as British foreign secretary Ernest Bevin expressed it, that "it is better to have our difficulties now than to live in a fool's paradise."

Quotes

Dr. I. I. Rabi, Cornell university physicist: Russia's approach to nuclear research is vulgar and materialistic and its scientists are treated like highly bred milk cows."

Charles E. Saltzman, assistant secretary of state: "The Berlin crisis could lead to war. . . . I wish I could give you some assurance that the critical situation will be resolved peacefully, but I can't."

Atomic Game.

Has Russia the atomic bomb? It's become a game almost like "button, button, who's got the button?" Russia repeatedly has hinted that the United States is not the only one with a button. On the other hand Russia does not say definitely she has developed one.

American experts agree that the secret of how to make the bomb has been no secret for some time. They doubt, however, that Russia has the industrial capacity to make it yet.

The latest Russian teaser on this subject was by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky at the United Nations General Assembly in Paris. Blasting this country's stand on international control of atomic energy, Vishinsky said it would be dangerous for this country to assume it had a monopoly on the weapon.

In Short

Opened: By the Royal Air Force, a drive for 100,000 recruits to keep pace with Britain's rearmament program, which also has halted demolition of wartime air-raid shelters.

Forbidden: By Catholic Canon Law, writings of Prime Minister Stalin for Catholic readers.

Submitted: By the Executive Yuan (parliament) in Nanking, a revised budget which would increase Chinese income taxes 1,000 per cent for the balance of this year.

First Graduate Nurse

By CALVIN A. BYERS

MORE than sixty distinguished public figures, among them President Truman, Harry Emerson Fosdick, Herbert Hoover, Walter Lippman, Harold E. Stassen, Fannie Hurst, Charles P. Taft, have joined with the American Nurses' Association in sponsoring a Diamond Jubilee of Nursing.

Nursing must be as old as the human race, for it developed no doubt, side by side with the mother-care of the young. But 75 years ago, in 1873, the first three nurses' training schools were established in this country—at Bellevue hospital in New York City, at the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston, and the Connecticut Training School for Nurses at New Haven. Before the time of Florence Nightingale nursing was not a profession. Prior to 1873 students of nursing received no formal training—they were simply put to work in hospital wards to learn by trial and error.

Imagine yourself a patient in 1873. You would take it for granted if the nurse slapped onion poultices, turpentine stupes, mustard plasters, leeches or hot flatirons on your ailing body.

Your family would take for granted your slow rate of recovery.

Seventy-five years ago, a nurse could not take a patient's blood pressure, give a basal metabolism test, or handle a respirator or an oxygen tent. Such things were unknown. Scientific discoveries in the last few decades have made over the nurse into a highly-skilled member of the medical team, and lengthened the life span of the average person by many, many years.

Linda Richards was the American Florence Nightingale—our first graduate nurse who received her diploma from the Boston hospital in May, 1873. At that time she was 29 years old—a "born nurse," with experience in practical nursing from a small girl.

She went to England to study at St. Thomas' hospital, London, and while there met Florence Nightingale, who said of her, "I have seldom seen anyone who struck me as so admirable. I think we have as much to learn from her as she from us."

She went to Japan, in 1885, as a medical missionary, and founded a nurses' training school there. In fact, she organized 12 training schools for nurses—11 of them in United States. She retired at 70 but continued active interest in the profession up to her death in 1930 at age 89. The American Nurses' Association honored her by engraving her likeness on the corporate seal of the ANA.

Each Leaves His Mark

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I HAVE an old rug on my floor, a runner made by skillful Persian fingers long ago.

As you look at it, through the streaming sunlight, it seems like a great, multi-colored banner, a riot of gold and blue, rose and green and violet.

But as you bend closer you see that it is not a mass of blended tints. Instead, it is made of many colors, many designs, and all the colors vary in their tone. Some are fresh and brilliant. Some are dim like a mat of flowers seen through moonlight. And the bands are uneven—no two extend the same length.

I wondered about that. I asked the dealer why there was so much variation in color and design. He hesitated for a while before he spoke, then he said—

"The colors and the weaving vary because the rug was woven long ago by different hands. It takes long months and years to weave a small portion of a rug like that. The girls begin it when they are so young they hardly know the difference in color or design. They are young but, even so, they know they weave the runner for their wedding tent and so in their wools they weave their young girl dreams and for each girl there is a different song.

"They are young but, even so, death sometimes arrives for them when they have finished just a yard or less. Then, when they've gone, some other maiden takes their place and weaves with other colors, other wool. And in the pattern blends her secret song.

"So now you see one long bright strip of rug and think of some one girl who toiled so long ago. But we, who know the process, see many girls who sat and dreamed and left the warm, bright rainbow of their hearts within the rug."

So the rug dealer told the secret of my rug and helped me understand, a little better, life itself.

For we are weavers, every one of us. And each one weaves the little while he's here. No one weavesall ne might nor with the self same hues. And some weave dreams and songs and some weave bitter tears.

But, from a distance, all is beautiful. And each strip plays its part within the whole, and leaves its mark upon all other lives.

Handicapped Workers Offered Jobs

Union Collects Vacation Funds, Spends Money as It Sees Fit

NEW YORK—The International Ladies Garment Workers Union of the American Federation of Labor makes great boast of its vacation funds collected from the employers. It is a strong, firm union with smart lawyers up to the minute on union law, tax law and interpretations by the bureaus and the courts. It is so strong that it dominates the industry and can step on an employer and mash him like a bug.

The employers argued that the money paid into the union's vacation funds, roughly three per cent of the workers' wages, did not constitute wages to these individual employes.

The basis for this argument was the provision in agreements between the union and the employers which required that the funds be administered by the union according to its own laws. And the controlling law read that "no individual workers shall have any right, title or interest in or claim against said funds except as may be prescribed by the by-laws or rules or regulations," and so forth. The bosses didn't want to collect withholding tax on this money. That was too complicated.

The by-laws of one of the locals said the fund should be used for the "health," "recreation" and "welfare" of the workers, under management by a committee of five members. These five, however, subject to approval by the executive board, were to decide what expenditures would best promote those indefinite purposes and how the money should be apportioned between the purposes.

The union did not promise that the money would be entirely spent or distributed each year which meant that the individual simply could not expect to get exactly all of the contribution made in his name. The union was holding some of the money for a reserve and there was nothing to forbid it from holding the entire collection in the reserve, indefinitely or forever.

One of the manufacturers said he was now paying, not three per cent but three and one-half per cent of his payroll into the fund, and said the workers simply were not getting it back. Incidentally, the internal revenue meanwhile had held that this money constituted wages to the people even though they never saw it, had no recognized claim to it, would never get it all and might never get any of it.

Any worker who died just before vacation time apparently forfeited his benefits, in which case the estate had no claim to his earned money because under the contract the person himself had no "right, title or interest in or claim."

The manufacturer who questioned the business said one woman who worked for him had earned about $2,100 and that he had paid in against her name $75. Nevertheless, he said, she got only $15 for her vacation and she and other workers suspected him of cheating them.

He said they were receiving about 25 per cent in direct payments the rest of his payroll tax to the union being withheld for the "reserve" or spent on the other debatable benefits. He had no right to demand an accounting even to clear his name of unjust suspicion.

★

Non-union workers' pay was similarly taxed for a fund to which they had no possible access. And where union employers farmed out work to contractors in non-union shops, they were responsible for payments to the union with respect to individual workers who were total outsiders Obviously a non-member wasn't eligible for any "benefit."

Yet when the union recently threw out picket lines and some of them had goon trouble and got scuffed up, the mayor, the police commissioner and the district attorney all hollered bloody murder. They might have considered the possibility that the workers, American people, were fighting to keep out of this union

Motorcycle Hits Three Automobiles

Cyclist Loses Four Teeth In Crash

Donald R Shade, 21, of Mansfield, R. D. 4, was injured when he was thrown from his motorcycle after colliding with three cars in an accident on U. S Route 30, one mile east of Mansfield, at 5:45 p. m. Friday.

Shade, who was home on a three-day pass from Ft. Bragg, N. C., where he is serving with the 317th medical battalion ambulance company, suffered lacerations of the lip, and finger and fracture of one finger on his left hand, and the loss of four teeth.

He was taken to Mansfield General hospital where his condition is reported to be "fair."

According to state highway patrolmen Shade attempted to go around a car driven by Myles E. Beeler, 46, of Wooster The handlebars of the motorcycle hit the left rear fender of Beeler's car. This threw the motorcycle out of control and it slid sideways down the road and ran into the side of a car driven by Ralph Taylor, 53, of Columbus who was traveling west.

The motorcycle bounced off Taylor's car and hit a third car driven by Curtis D Guntharp, 27, of 36 Clifton avenue.

The impact of this last blow threw Shade from the motorcycle, according to patrolmen.

None of the others involved in the accident was injured.

Water Work Group Elects

Thomas R. Lathrop, of the Ohio department of health, Columbus, was elected chairman of the Ohio section of the American Water Works association, at the closing session yesterday of its two-day meeting.

A. A. Urlich, vice president of the Ohio Water Service company, Massillon, was named vice chairman and F. P. Fischer, of the Wallace-Tiernan company, Cleveland, was renamed secretary-treasurer.

The 200 delegates closed their meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel yesterday with a general discussion of technical water works problems. Prior to the discussion period, they heard a talk by L. A. Marshall, superintendent of filtration in Cleveland. A paper by G. A. Hall, of the state department of health, was read by Donald Heffelfinger.

Addresses by C. C. Whysall, of the Marion Water company, and R D. McGil, H C. Nutting company, Cincinnati, were heard in the morning session.

Inventories Filed In 2 Large Estates

Inventories filed yesterday in probate court show the estate of Harrison Deming Lowrey was appraised at $136,336 while Charles H. Keating left $98,789.

Mr. Lowrey, who died on Aug. 31, formerly headed the receiving department of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company.

Biggest item in the estate was a one-half interest in the Hotel Howe property at Akron, valued at $125,000.

The estate went to his widow, Mrs. Rhea Lowrey, and two sons, Deming Lowrey of Mansfield, and Dr. George Harrison Lowrey, of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Mr. Keating was chairman of the board of directors of the Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company at the time of his death last Sept. 14. His property was left to his widow, Mrs. Gertrude S. Keating.

Included in the Keating estate were 153 shares of Farmers Savings and Trust company stock, valued at $10,710, 15, Mansfield Savings Trust National Bank, $5,250, 658, Richland Hotel company, $9,870; 312, Tappan Stove company, $6,630, and government bonds and other stock in private firms.

1,000 Attend Festival In Spite of Rain

Rain failed to dampen the enthusiasm of more than 1000 carnival merrymakers who attended the Harvest Festival sponsored by the South and Maple Lake Park association, last night.

Tickets were sold by the small sons and daughters of association members, who vied with each other for first place. Winners were Betty Joe Staninger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Staninger, Taylor road, and Richard Bowman, son of Mrs. Hazel Bowman, 42 Sherman avenue.

Concession booths were crowded and 100 home-made cakes and 40 pies were sold.

A band concert was provided during the early part of the evening by the Johnny Appleseed band and a drill by the majorettes added color to the entertainment.

Prizes were presented by a committee including Jerry Tuber, C. H. Rupert, Don Sowers and Curt Boehn. Food was obtained for the booths under the direction of Mrs. J. E. Clemens, and her committee.

Names Fire Captains

Garrison Appoints Underwood, Jones

Two veteran city firemen with a combined total of 33 years of service were appointed fire captains today by Service-Safety Director Earl T. Garrison.

They are Ray E. Underwood, 599 South Main street, and Leo Jones, 204 Atcheson avenue. At present, both are serving at the Central station in the city building.

Jones has been on the force since Nov. 21, 1929 and Underwood since June 19, 1934. The appointments take effect Oct 15.

At the same time, Garrison announced the appointment of a new fireman to fill one of the vacancies created by the two promotions. A second man would be appointed as soon as interviews can be arranged.

The new fireman is Howard K Remy, 323 Hammond avenue, who was given a 90-day probational appointment. At present he is employed by Widder's grocery.

The two promotions were made in order to have full crews ready to take over the new No. 5 fire station on Marion avenue, near Cline, as soon as it is completed Fire Chief L J Steele indicated today that the building will be ready for occupancy within the next two weeks.

He said the firemen and captains to be stationed at the new fire house will not be announced until Oct. 15, the day the promotions take effect.

'Y' Pushes Campaign

Workers Report 70 Boy Members

The YMCA boys' membership drive was a step nearer its goal of 500 today after a total of 70 new and renewal memberships were turned in at the first report meeting held at the "Y" yesterday. The drive opened Oct. 4 and will continue through Oct 15

Heading the drive are Lewis Winbigler, chairman, and Charles Green, assistant chairman. Harold Mansfield is the adult adviser.

Airplanes are strung on wires along the ceiling of the boys' lobby in the YMCA. The course of the planes from Los Angeles to New York is a distance of 3,000 miles. There are 13 planes, one for each Mansfield school, and the quota for each school is determined on the basis of the number of students enrolled.

Each member acquired by the school counts a certain number of miles in the cross-country race. The planes are moved along the wires until they reach their goal at New York.

Each school has a membership team of three or four with a captain known as a pilot. Prizes will be awarded to the boys securing the largest number of memberships.

The boy who turns in the most memberships will have his choice of such items as a portable radio, automatic pencils, flashlights, and athletic equipment.

The next report meeting of the drive will be held at 4 p. m. Tuesday.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—

M. Dale Ward, secretary-treasurer of the Mansfield Telephone company and vice president of the Richland Trust company, is one of the lucky Mansfielders who got a ticket for a World Series game. Ward is celebrating his birthday today by attending the game in Cleveland.

Ward

Ward is well-known in Mansfield for his active interest in civic affairs. He is a member of the Westbrook Country club, the Elks lodge, Masonic order, and serves on the Mansfield hospital board

During the war he corresponded with 100 servicemen who were stationed in all parts of the world.

Married and the father of one son, Ward lives at 655 Park avenue west.

Also celebrating a birthday today is C. D. Huff, Mansfield realtor. He will celebrate tonight at a birthday party with all the trimmings.

Huff came to Mansfield from Newark as a traveling representative for H J. Heinz comany. He has been in the real estate business for the past 25 years.

He is a member of the Elks lodge, Chamber of Commerce, past president of the Mansfield Real Estate board, and St. Matthew's Lutheran church.

Huff's love of baseball, particularly the kind played by the Cleveland Indians, was satisfied yesterday when he went to Cleveland to see a World Series game.

Married and the father of three children, he lives at 258 Vennum avenue.

SKETCH FOR PLAQUE—

Because Gerald G. Estill of San Antonio, Tex., has a soft spot in his heart for Mansfield, his home town, he is making a sketch which he hopes will be used as a pattern for a plaque to be placed by the old fire bell in Central park. Estill, who is an illustrator and cartoonist, is visiting Mansfield for the first time since he left here in 1898 His sketch shows an old horse-drawn engine like those used when the fire station was located in the old city building at Park avenue west and Walnut street The old fire bell was on top of that building. Estill also has made sketches of other buildings he remembers which are still standing in Mansfield.

Campaign Brings Results

OSES Gets 15 Orders

Mansfield area employers have responded to the appeal for jobs for handicapped workers, with six workers already placed in jobs, the State Employment office reported today.

C W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield OSES office, said 15 orders for handicapped workers have been received this week.

The handicapped workers are now filling such positions as bookkeeper, general office worker, factory worker, and retail salesman.

Handley said that several employers had come into the office to make inquiries about the handicapped persons who were listed by number in The News-Journal. The employers were given records of these persons and are checking the records.

More than 50 handicapped persons had job applications on file at the office when the drive started Monday. Since that time at least 10 applications have been added. However, some of these persons have already obtained jobs without the aid of the employment office, Handley said.

CAMPAIGN CONTINUES

Although the national drive ends this week, the program to place handicapped persons in suitable positions will continue throughout the year, Handley said The drive encouraged a greater number of handicapped persons to apply for positions and it also encouraged employers to hire the handicapped by instructing them as to the value of such persone as workers, he continued.

Handley said, that in his opinion the response to the drive has been excellent. "There have been no discouraging incidents and everyone has cooperated to make the campaign a success."

The final list of five handicapped women and men who need jobs appears below. Information about them can be obtained at the OSES office on North Diamond street, Phone 4154-6.

'Missing' Atomic Bomb Wasn't Lost After All, Book Reveals

Memos of a Girl Friday—Dear Mr. W.: The atom bomb "never accounted for," which (we said) is one of the big mysteries at Naval Intelligence, was not a complete bomb. No detonator in the first place. No mystery, either . . . True, when the U S S. Indianapolis was sunk by the Japs it carried "parts of the first atomic bomb" being sent to "Toohey" Spaats in the Marianas—and these parts were delivered. The Indianapolis went down after it delivered the precious cargo. This made the bomb that fell on Hiroshima! . . . The whole story appears in Wm. L. Laurence's book, "Dawn Over Zero—The Inside Story of the Atomic Bomb." Don't feel too glum about it—because Admiral Zacharias (of Naval Intelligence) fell for the same breathless yarn over the air last summer and later retracted it.

Levering Raps 'Narrow' Outlook

Attorney Robert W. Levering, of Mt Vernon, Democratic candidate for congress from this district, addressed Richland county central committeemen and women last night at Liberty park. He said there has been a tendency to elect men to congress who have a "too narrow outlook' on national and world problems

About 100 persons attended the party, given by Democratic candidates for the committee members. Albert Martin of Ashland, spoke on Levering's book, "Horror Trek" which was recently published. Walter E Rusk was general chairman of the meeting.

600 Girl Scouts Take Part In Hunt for Fire Hazards

Six hundred Mansfield Girl Scouts participated in a fire hazard hunt at Girl Scout headquarters, 17 South Franklin avenue, this week as their part in Fire Prevention Week

Thirteen fire hazards were hidden at headquarters and the girls came by troops to hunt for them. The fire hazards consisted of such items as a baby doll sitting on the floor playing with matches and oily rags and mops in a closet.

First, second and third prizes were awarded to the three Girl Scouts and the three Brownies who found and listed the most fire hazards. The prize money was awarded by the Fire Prevention committee, and will be used by the winners to purchase Girl Scout equipment.

Carolyn Kendig of Troop 12 won the first prize of $3 awarded in the intermediate Girl Scout class. Second prize of $2 went to Pat Qunian of Troop 12, and third prize of $1 to Margaret Gettins of Troop 40. Mrs K E. Hague is the leader of Troop 12 and Mrs. Edmund Pankow the leader of Troop 40.

First prize for the Brownies went to Kay Ackerman of Troop 56. Second prizewas won by Betty Salsbury and third by Cheryl Martin, both of Troop 65. Mrs. Emmett Casey is leader of Troop 56 and Mrs. W. H. Martin leads Troop 65.

The committee in charge of the hunt consisted of Mrs. Fred Hout, Mrs. W. H Marshall, Mrs. Harold George and Mrs Joy Herbert.

BPW Week Proclaimed By Mayor

Action Honors Business Women

A special proclamation was issued today by Mayor Roy W. Vaughn putting emphasis on National Business Women's week, observance of which starts tomorrow.

Mayor Vaughn's proclamation said in part: "Whereas the members of the Business and Professional Women's club of Mansfield are particularly interested in earning their future with an effective program of participation in those affairs which so vitally affect each individual; and, whereas the observance of this week was established to focus attention upon the contributions business and professional women make to this community's activities and achievement, now, therefore, I, Roy W. Vaughn, mayor of the city of Mansfield, do hereby proclaim locally the week of Oct. 10 to 16 as National Business Women's Week."

The Mansfield BPW has planned a program for next Wednesday night at which Dr. Harry Wain, city-county health commissioner will speak.

The dinner meeting will be held in the Grace Episcopal church at 6:30 p. m. Miss Martha McFarland is program chairman for the evening.

Austria Pays $445 Million

VIENNA — (AP) — The occupation of "liberated" Austria has cost this country $445,445,089 since the end of the war, according to Dr. Georg Zimmerman, minister of finance. Of this account $319,950,000 was for military occupation costs, $4,919,516 was for damages caused by allied military personnel, and $120,575,574 for schillings converted by the four powers when new money was issued last winter.

The Austrian government has protested the payment of occupation costs, terming it neither legal nor in the interests of world peace. In a note to the Allied Council last May, the government demanded the occupying powers pay their own way in Austria.

The government has the full support of the American authorities here in abolishing the occupation cost burden. The United States has been paying its own way in dollars for more than one year. The British have not drawn from their special account since Jan. 1.

Upper Sandusky Upsets Crestline In League Game

CRESTLINE — Upper Sandusky overcame an early lead to upset a favored Crestline team here last night, 14 to 12, in a Northern Ohio league game.

The Crestliners had won two league tilts and started out to make last night's game a rout. Nap Morton, 190-pound Crestline speedster, tallied two touchdowns in the first quarter, one from the 26 and the other from the 39.

Upper got its first score in the second heat when Mason scored from the 15. Cline put Upper ahead in the fourth quarter, counting from the 12. Zeausey converted both extra points.

It was the Crestline homecoming game.

Scalpers Take Big Beating

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Many ticket scalpers were scalped yesterday. Hundreds of choice World Series tickets went begging.

Cries of "Tickets, Tickets—drastic reductions" rang out just before game time on short Vincent street where the illegal ticket peddling has flourished.

One fan with an $8 box seat reported he had purchased his ticket for only 50 cents. Some persons, observers said, actually were given free tickets when the desperate speculators found it impossible to unload the ducats after the game started.

Boston Red Sox Eye Bucky Harris

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox, who have very fine luck with one ex-Yankee manager, were said today to be on the verge of replacing him with another.

By mutual agreement, it was learned that neither the Red Sox nor Marse Joe McCarthy were particulary interested in keeping company with each other through the 1949 season. And at the same time it looked as if Bucky Harris might take over as his replacement.

Mt. Gilead Tribe Scalps Opponent Handily, 18 to 7

MT. GILEAD—The football Indians of Mt. Gilead scalped Cardington, 18 to 7, here last night with touchdown plays in the first and third quarters.

Mt. Gilead counted two scores on the aerial team, Jack Lancaster to Dale McClelland, in the third period. One covered 18 yards and the final score 58 yards.

Dale Meeker drew first blood for Mt. Gilead with a 33-yard scamp in the opening period.

Alton Roach scored for Cardington from the 4-yard line on a quarterback sneak.

Lilienthal Firm on Ban

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government Friday challenged leaders of the CIO United Electrical Workers union to disprove charges of communist ties.

The alternative: the union's quick and complete ouster from A-bomb plants.

In disclosing this stand the atomic energy commission also underlined a policy of requiring labor union leaders representing atomic workers not only to submit non-communist oaths but to obtain the same FBI loyalty clearance demanded of the workers themselves.

The commission a week ago barred the U. E. from representing workers at any new atomic plants for the stated reason that the loyalty of some of the union's officers is open to "very serious question."

The challenge to the U. E. leadership was voiced by AEC Chairman David Lilienthal in a letter replying to a protest from Union President Albert Fitzgerald.

Lilienthal wrote that unless the question loyalty of U. E. officers is "cleared up satisfactorily," the AEC intends to take "such further steps as may be necessary" for security.

Speakman Heads Cast

Little Theater Players Announced

Donald Speakman will take the leading role in "Room Service," the play to be presented by the Mansfield Little Theater, Nov. 8, 9 and 10.

Announcement of the cast was made by Earl Heasley, play director.

Speakman takes the part of Gordon Miller in the production. A graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, where he made an excellent record in the senior class play, Speakman was given a scholarship to Ashland college. He studied public speaking and expression under the direction of Myrtle Green of the Canton Community Players. He has worked with station KDKA at Pittsburgh and participated in USO shows during the ar.

Richard Hamilton, Jacques Edwards and Max Heisz are others who will have leading parts in the play.

Five new members were added to the board of directors last night. They include Mrs. Mabel Ward, Mrs. Virgil Hartman, Mrs. Marjorie Davidson, Harold Loesch and Sheldon Clark.

Heasley announced the following committee chairmen for the play's production: Make-up, Mrs. Ernest Yoakum; property, Mrs. Nelson Neff; costumes, Mrs. Mabel Ward; stage manager, Sheldon Clark, and publicity, Harold Loesch.

The next meeting of the board will be held Thursday, Oct. 14, in the court house jury room.

Settle Case During Trial

A $4,800 damage suit has been settled out of court after partied yesterday afternoon after part of the case had been heard in common pleas court and the jury had viewed the accident scene.

Oscar J. Marcus, 210 Cline avenue, had sued Joseph Letizia, Mansfield, R. D. 4, for $4,800, as a result of an auto accident.

Letizia, in a cross-petition, asked $1,000. The parties agreed to settle the case during the afternoon after the jury returned from the accident scene.

Three other suits, resulting from the same accident, also were settled, but journal entries have not been filed.

A case set for Friday, Joe Davis, a minor, by his stepfather and next friend, Marvin Stevens, 311 Miller street, vs. the city of Mansfield, was continued.

The plaintiff claims he was denied admission to the swimming pool at Liberty park because he is colored. He asked $500 damages.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Gromek to Try for Third Indian Victory

Cuff Stuff
By
Fred Tharp

CLEVELAND—The weatherman has been most kind to the athletes . . . Rain fell intermittently all morning but stopped a half-hour before game time . . . The field was in good shape . . . Tarpaulins had covered the entire infield . . . The stands were filled with celebrities and a lot of just plain fans . . . The official attendance was 70,306 . . . There were plenty of vacant bleacher seats and the standing room facilities behind the low outfield screen were not taxed . . . The record crowd of 74,065 watched the Yanks and Dodgers last year . . . However yesterday's crowd hit a new cash high of $345,614.47, beating the Yank-Dodger handle of $327,659.70 . . . This is the last day the players share . . . Their pot has reached $339,614.47 . . . It is likely that each player on the winning team will get more than the record $6,544.76 Detroit players received for beating the Cubs in 1935

★

BILL VOISELLE'S relief pitching was beautiful . . . He took over in the fourth with the bases filled and only one away . . . Big Bill, an in-and-outer, got Dale Mitchell to pop up to Bob Elliott near the stands and Larry Doby grounded out to first . . . Voiselle retired 10 men in order before Doby singled in the seventh . . . Barrett did not allow a Clevelander to reach base in his one-inning stint . . . Doby got the only hit among the first six men in the Cleveland batting order

★

THE EASIEST job at the series belongs to the umpires that watch the left and right field foul lines . . . They are in addition to the four base umps . . . The left field watcher had the only call when an Eddie Stanky drive into the bleachers went foul by only a few feet in the fifth . . . For the second straight day no photographers were permitted on the playing field . . . Cleveland pitchers have accepted 20 chances without an error in the three games

★

JOHNNY SAIN was really the workhorse of the Brave staff . . . In the last 33 days of the season he went the nine-inning limit 10 times . . . Ten Braves hit the first pitch served up by Gene Bearden yesterday . . . Billy Southworth, Boston manager says his team will start hitting today . . . Quoting Billy: "Our club hits. We led the National league in hitting. I know we are looking at good pitching but we hit good pitching all year. Web Hollows like Rex Barney and Ralph Branca and Harry Brecheen. We beat them. We're just not hitting. I present it. But we'll start any minute."

Lefty Gene Bearden's 2-0 Victor

By FRED THARP
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

CLEVELAND — A former Mansfield Braves shortstop will be entrusted with the world series destinies of the Cleveland Indians today in the fourth game of the tribe's joust with the Boston Braves for the world's baseball championship.

Steve Gromek who played short for the Mansfield Braves in the 1939 Ohio State league season was nominated by Manager Lou Boudreau last night to hurl the crucial contest. A victory for Gromek would put the Indians just one game away from their first world's title since 1920.

Yesterday Lefty Gene Bearden gave the Cleveland aggregation its second straight victory by a 2 to-0 count. Bearden permitted only five safe blows as he turned in his second big triumph of the week. The purple heart southpaw had pitched Cleveland to its playoff win over the Boston Red Sox Monday.

NOT SURPRISING

Decision to use Gromek in the fourth contest was not surprising. The tall 200 pounder pitched great ball during the late stages of the campaign. Then too the use of the former Mansfield star gives Bobby Feller an extra day of rest. Feller is ticketed to hurl the fifth game of the series here Sunday.

Gromek appeared in 37 games during the regular season many as a relief hurler. He copped nine games and lost three, compiling an earned run average of 2.77.

However Gromek faces the toughest assignment of his career. Opposing him on the mound will be Johnny Sain, one of the few bright spots on the Braves firmament. The lanky Arkansas hill billy gave the Boston variety of redskins their only series victory so far. He bested Feller in the opener 1 to 0.

AGAINST SAIN

Sain who was 24 and lost 15 during the regular season was never better than in the first game. He allowed only four singles, struck out six and did not issue a free ticket to first. But Sain had to be good in that one as Feller gave up only two safeties.

Bearden's mound work yesterday rivaled that of Sain and Feller. The six foot three inch knuckle ball specialist who carries silver plates in his skull and right leg as momentos of the war, spaced five hits over the first seven innings.

The Braves whose hitting against Cleveland pitchers resembles the explosiveness of Fourth of July firecrackers never could get more than one hit an inning off the Arkansas giant. Two of the Boston hitters hitting safely, Mike McCormick and Bob Elliott were erased with snappy double plays.

Boston threatened only three times. In the second inning Frank McCormick singled to center with one away and took second when Clint Conatser bounced to Bearden. Phil Masi lined to Dale Mitchell near the fence for the third out.

STANKY TO THIRD

Phil-Eddie Stanky started the third with a single just out of Eddie Robinson's stretch. He took second on Vern Bickford's bunt and then got to third when Tommy Holmes grounded out to the pitcher. Alvin Dark lined to Wally Judnich to end the game. Dark banged the handles hard of the game in the sixth when he hit the left field batter on the fly for a double. A pop up left Dark stranded.

Bickford, Boston's rookie ace was constantly in hot water during his 3 1-3 inning mound tenure. He had trouble with his control walking five and giving up four of the five Cleveland hits. Bearden collected two of the blows.

The Cleveland port sider started and finished Bickford's downfall. After Jim Hegan popped up to open the third, Bearden hit the low right field fence on the first bounce for a double. Mitchell walked and Larry Doby grounded to Stanky. Mitchell was forced out but Dark's throw to first on the attempted double play went into the Cleveland dugout and Bearden scored.

Ken Keltner the first batter in the fourth strolled on four straight balls and Judnich struck out. Robinson singled to left and Hegan plated the second run with a one baser to center. Bearden then hung a clothes line to center to load the sacks.

That was all for Bickford who had a 10-5 record. Bill Voiselle and Red Barrett finished for the Braves and stifled the Indian bats.

Mansfield Tygers Gain Third Straight Win

WINNING BATTERY—Happy Gene Bearden (right), Cleveland Indians pitcher, hugs his battery mate, Jim Hegan, in Indians' dressing room in Cleveland Stadium after the rookie lefthander set the Boston Braves down 2-0 with five hits in third game of World Series. Hegan singled home the game's only earned run.

Madison Ram Footballers Romp Over Rittman, 32-19

RITTMAN—Neither rain nor mud nor the frizzle-dazzle of an inspired Rittman high eleven could knock Madison's bucking Rams from the ranks of the unbeaten.

The black and gold clad warriors from Mansfield rolled to their third triumph here Friday night by polishing off Rittman 32-19.

Madison's plunging fullback Fred Durig and field general Larry Secrist took turns on touchdown jaunts. Durig ploughed over for three including a 45-yard pass interception while Secrist tallied two others.

The outstanding operative of the game however and the one who stole the hearts of both Madison and Rittman rooters was tiny Jim Baker, a freshman substitute playing his first game for the Indians. The youth who weighs 110 pounds in full football regalia scored all three Rittman touchdowns on hipper-dipper pass plays and served as the inspiration for the losers.

FIND BOOTER

The Rams however uncovered another star of their own—Donald Hartman, soph kicking ace who made an auspicious varsity debut booting two extra points into lusty headwind. The gangling kicker booted one extra point over the goal posts the game had to be called temporarily for the officials to find the ball.

Power football paid dividends for the Rams. Madison ploughed to 181 yards rushing while racking up 10 first downs. The losers held a marked statistical edge in passing showing a rather impressive 237 yards to the Rams 75 through the air lanes. That gave the Rittman gridders 13 first downs.

Madisons first score was set up by a fumble in the opening minutes of the game. Moving from the Rittman 20 in easy quick plays the Rams scored on Secrists buck from the five.

The hard-plunging Durig climaxed a 55-yard concerted drive with a plunge from the 3-yard-stripe prompting Hartman to boot the ball into the next county for the extra point.

DURIG GRABS

Durig showed his versatility by grabbing a Rittman aerial with a circus catch and traveling 45 yards behind fast forming interference to score. Guard Norm Hughes was key man on the play tossing a savage block on a potential tackler.

Another 15-yard sustained march in the third period gave the Rams another score with Durig going over from the 11. Secrist duplicated the feat on the final score in the last quarter going over from the 11.

Shortly before the half the Rittman team trailing 19-0 dipped into their well-stocked bag of tricks and on a well executed pass play culminating with a lateral scored from the Rams 45.

Little substitute Jimmy Baker scored twice more with less than three minutes remaining in the game once on a 55-yard pass play and the final one on a 45 yard touchdown jaunt.

Los Angeles Dons Powder Rockets

(By United Press)

The Chicago Rockets were running a close second behind the Brooklyn Dodgers today as the weakest team in the All-America conference.

The Rockets suffered their sixth defeat in seven games last night going down to a 49 to 26 defeat at the hands of the Los Angeles Dons. The Dodgers have failed to break into the win column in five starts.

Redmen Drub Injury-Laden Shelby, 50-0

By JOHN PATRICK

BUCYRUS—The Bucyrus Redmen drubbed the Shelby Whippets by a score of 50 to 0 in a home coming game here last night.

Coach Al Pesek took full advantage of the feeble defense set up by the third and fourth stringers of the injury-riddled Whippet team by utilizing his first team for practically the entire game to hand Shelby one of the worst defeats in its history.

Bucyrus scored on the kick-off when Dutchers boot was misjudged by Berry who tipped it into the end zone. Wetz slide around on the slick muddy field before finally grabbing the ball to give the Redmen two points on a safety.

Shelby made its only serious threat in the first period when the Whippets pushed forward with Berry and Phillips carrying the ball for two first downs to the Bucyrus 28. Berry was then nailed for an eleven yard loss on an attempt around left end. Two plays netted two yards and then Utz kicked out on the Bucyrus 30.

KIBLER RUNS 70

On the first play Bill Kibler on a beautiful run through the left tackle carried 70 yards for a touchdown. Dick Kibler plunged for the extra point.

In the second quarter Bill Kibler again scored from the four yard line and again Dick Kibler carried over for the extra point.

Light scored on an end around play from the eight-yard line in the second half and Bill Kibler plunged for the extra point. On an attempted lateral Berry fumbled and Bucyrus recovered on the four. The Redmen were penalized 15 yards. Ball passed to Johns for 15 yards and Dick Kibler scored on the next play only to have it nullified because of a penalty. Light scored from the nine yard line.

Dick Kibler scored from the six-yard line and Dutcher plunged for the extra point to make it 36 to 0. Dutcher scored from the six yard line. Teynors attempt for the extra point was good and a 24-yard pass from Bill Kibler to Dick Kibler for a touchdown with Dick Kibler going over for the extra point completed the scoring.

More than 1,000 Mansfield high school football fans called the News-Journal last night requesting scores of the Senior high and Madison games.

Joe Miller, Jenkins Star In Easy 33-to-0 Triumph

PORTSMOUTH—With Capt. Joe Miller and A. C. Jenkins as the big guns Mansfield Senior high school turned loose a savage ground offensive here last night to annihilate the Portsmouth Trojans, 33 to 0.

The 185-pound veterans ran over and around the surprised Trojans to account for all five Mansfield touchdowns. Jenkins got three and Miller two. Howie Tipper kicked the three extra points.

Coach Augie Morningstar's charges completely dominated the game as they romped to their third straight victory and their highest point total of the season. The Tygers dropped their opener to a strong Whiting, Ind. outfit.

For the first time this year the Tyger forward wall looked like a finished product. The linemen halted the Trojan attack with only a net of 42 yards. Senior high rode to 398 yards and 15 first downs through the big holes opened by the linemen.

PASSES TWICE

So fierce and consuming was the Tyger attack that the team was not forced to punt once. And Mansfield resorted to only two passes, both winding up in Portsmouth hands.

One of the pass interceptions led to the lone Portsmouth threat in the fourth quarter. Dee Mauk grabbed a Paul Ferguson pass on the Portsmouth 31 and the Trojan aerial offense started to click. Two passes from Dave Gambill to Mauk moved the ball down to the Mansfield 17 but Harry Osbun intercepted a heave to end the march.

Eleven plays after the opening kickoff Mansfield had its first TD. Little Tommy Tucker aided Miller and Jenkins in the 77 yard drive. It was the first game in which Tucker did not score. Jenkins got the first tally on a two-yard plunge.

Then in the second quarter Dave Flinders quick-kicked to the Mansfield 21. Jenkins went wide around left end for 67 yards the game's longest run. Miller blasted 12 yards into paydirt on the ensuing play. Tipper's kick was good but the Tygers were penalized back to the 17 and Howie couldn't get the next one over.

With one minute left in the first half Mansfield blocked a punt and recovered on the 22. Jenkins worked Marion Motley's favorite trap play to go all the way. Tipper converted.

In the third period Flinders punted one out on the Portsmouth 48. Jenkins made 17 yards and Miller scored from the 31. Those were the only plays used.

A 60-yard Mansfield march a few moments later failed to pay off when Portsmouth recovered a second down fumble on the five.

Flinders was forced to boot from the end zone. Tucker gathered in the ball on the 43 and returned to the 26. Jenkins picked up seven yards and Miller four. Jenkins made nine on a trap to the six.

On the following play Jenkins went around left end to tally. However the Tygers were penalized back to 11 so Jenkins used the same play to again score.

★

Morningstar now has two consecutive wins over his old charges. The Tyger mentor coached the Trojans in 1946. Last year, the Bengals defeated Portsmouth 23 to 7.

★

The Marching Tygers made a big hit with the Portsmouth fans. The Senior high handsmen went through their airplane routine in the darkened stadium.

New Ohio Methodist Bishop to Speak Monday In Mansfield

Six-County Meeting Scheduled

Church Groups Honor Leader at Reception

For the first time since his elevation to the head of the Methodist conference of Ohio, Bishop Hazen G. Werner will visit Mansfield Monday to speak at the district meeting of Methodist ministers and stewards at the First Methodist church.

Bishop Werner recently succeeded Bishop H. Lester Smith, who had served for years as Ohio bishop of the Methodist church.

Bishop Werner, with Mrs. Werner, will be in Mansfield for the all-daly session which opens at 10 a. m. Monday. He will speak at 3 p. m. to the entire conference group and at 4 p. m Bishop and Mrs. Werner will be honored at a reception in the church parlors.

The reception will be open to all who may wish to meet the Werners, Rev. Charles W. Stoneburner, pastor of the host church, said.

Monday's conference will open with devotions by Rev. C. S. Applegath of Ashland. Dr. V. C. Tyree of Mt. Vernon also will take part in the morning service and Dr. W. Stanley Smith of Akron will give the address.

At noon luncheon will be served by a group from the Women's Society for Christian Service headed by Mrs. Stuart Baird.

WELCOME MINISTERS

During the program immediately following luncheon, the new ministers of the district will be welcomed by Rev. James A. Scott of Shelby. The response will be presented by Rev. C. L. Yoder of Crestline, one of the new ministers.

The theme of the meeting will be "Advance for Christ and His Church" and its study will start a four-year program in the Mansfield district church in collaboration with a nation-wide program. The theme to be carried out during the four-year program will emphasize, faith, missions and the ministry.

The reception for Bishop and Mrs. Werner will be held under the joint auspices of the women's societies of both the First and Central Methodist churches. Mrs. C. L. Lisle, president of the First Methodist WSCS, and Mrs. E. Ray Jenkins, president of the Central Methodist group, will be in charge.

It is expected that at least 200 will be here from Richland, Ashland, Morrow, Knox, Coshocton and part of Delaware counties.

Hold Rally Services

Two Mansfield churches will hold Rally Day programs at 9 30 a. m. Sunday.

Wilbur Fish will be the guest artist for the Rally Day program at the First Evangelical United Brethren church. Fish plays the musical glasses, piccolo cowbells, London cricket bells, vibra harp and singing saw.

The Rally Day program at Grace Gospel church will be in charge of Mrs. Walter Hout, program director, and William Nash, general superintendent of the Sunday school.

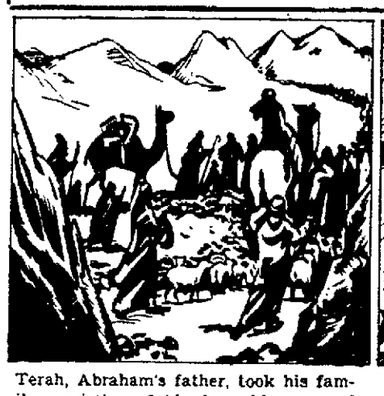
COUNCIL MEETS

Members of the church council of St. Luke's Lutheran church will meet at the parsonage Tuesday at 7 30 p. m.

Biography in the Bible — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Genesis 11:27-25:11.



Terah, Abraham's father, took his family consisting of Abraham, his son, and Abraham's wife, Sarah, his grandson, Lot, and moved from Ur, land of the Chaldees, and they dwelt in Haran until Terah's death, when God told Abraham to go to the land of Canaan.

God appeared to Abraham and promised that He would make a great nation from his descendants, but Abraham told Him that Sarai, his wife, never had borne a child. The Lord promised her a son, and it came to pass that a son was born to Sarai and called Isaac.

When Isaac was a growing boy, it was demanded that Abraham make a sacrifice of him to the Lord. Obediently but with aching heart, Abraham took his son, laid him on the altar, and was about to sacrifice him, when the angel of the Lord withheld his hand.

Sarai (now Sarah) died before Abraham, her husband, and he bought a field from Ephron, of the children of Heth, in which was a cave, and he buried Sarah there, and when Abraham died he was laid by her side.

MEMORY VERSE—Matthew 22:37.

Baptist Leader to Speak At Park Avenue Church Sunday

DR. EVERETT GILL JR.

Dr. Everett Gill jr, of Richmond, Va, will be the guest speaker at the morning and evening services of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday. Dr. Gill will come to Mansfield from Columbus where he has been attending the Foreign Missions conference of North America.

RABBI EUGENE LIPMAN

Rabbi Lipman To Conduct Rites Here

Yom Kippur services will start next Tuesday at 6:30 p. m for Jewish congregations of the city and continue through Wednesday until the same hour.

Known as the Day of Atonement throughout Hebrew temples of the world, the services begin at sundown and continue until sundown the next day.

During that 24 hours, which comprise the most important day in the Jewish calendar, the fate of each individual is sealed with his God. This service will begin with the chant of the Kol Nodrei, traditional Hebrew hymn of repentance. During the 24 hours of devotion, there will be fasting for all those of Jewish faith.

At the B'Nai Jacob synagogue Rabbi Moshe Goldblum will preside and at the Temple Emanuel Rabbi Eugene Lipman will come from Cincinnati to have charge of the services.

With the close of Yom Kippur services, the 10 days of penitence which began with the New Year's observance, ends with traditional festivities, which include a congregational dinner.

Nazarene Church Marks Anniversary of Founding

Paul Johnson, tenor soloist, will appear at the Church of the Nazarene tomorrow in observance of the 40th anniversary of the founding of the church at Pilot Point, Texas in 1908.

In commemoration of this event, the Mansfield church will hold special services tomorrow morning, with the pastor, Rev. A. H. Perry giving some of the historical facts of the church.

At the time of the organization in 1908, resulting from the union of three separate groups from west, south and east, there were 10,000 members, scattered widely among 228 churches. At that time the Sunday school department of the combined churches had a total of a few more than 6,000 members and the total giving of the church was $140,000.

Today the Church of the Nazarene has reached a membership of 210,000, representing 3,350 churches in the United States, Canada and the British Isles with nearly 200 missionaries in 28 foreign countries. The Sunday school enrollment had advanced to 400,000 and the total giving for 1947 was more than $44,000,000.

The Church of the Nazarene supports six major colleges in the three countries in which it flourishes, according to Rev. Perry.

The Mansfield church was organized in 1927.

Coming to Mansfield with Johnson will be his wife. Together they will present a musical program during the morning anniversary service.

PAUL JOHNSON

Officers Take Posts Tomorrow

Newly-elected officers for the Pilgrim Fellowship of the First Congregational church will take their posts tomorrow at 7 p. m. when members meet at the parish house.

The list includes: Charles Green, president; Charles Marchant, vice-president; Philip Preble, secretary; and Charlotte Boyd, treasurer. Patricia Daugherty and Nancy Clark will assist Mr. and Mrs. James Boyd and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Knapp in planning the social activities of the group.

Board to Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the official board of the Central Methodist church will be held Monday at 7 p. m. The Sunday school workers conference will convene at 8 p. m.

Congress OK Says Martin

America and who fully trust the people," he said.

"We look forward to the day when the American worker and the American farmer may do more than labor for the tax collector," said Martin.

"The Republican party this year presents to the American people in Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and Gov. Earl Warren, two men of outstanding ability, two men of proven capacity as administrators, two men possessing the patriotic zeal necessary to preserve American ideals and give the moral and courageous leadership required to save a sinking world.

SEES PROGRESS

"America has found her old spiritual moorings and is in a mood today to resume the march of progress, the march to peace, abundance, security and the square deal for all.

"Let us be on with this great task and let us never be weary of the fight.

"With such a program — with such a mission, with high vision, we cannot fail."

Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch served as chairman, introducing Republican county candidates Prosecutor Theodore Lutz, Neil Robinson, for representative, H. R. Barnes, for recorder, County Commissioner John W. Selby, John C. Friday, for county commissioner; Chauncey M Chatlain, for sheriff, and E. R. Friday for clerk of courts.

Fred H. Johnson, chairman of the Republican state executive committee, spoke on the accomplishments of the administration of Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, listing the welfare department building program, reduction in the sales tax, increased old age pensions, a 44 per cent increase in the public schools fund, and the veterans' bonus.

State candidates introduced included Treasurer Don H. Ebright, Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins and the Republican candidate for state auditor, Rober W. Tracy.

McGregor was introduced by his colleague in the House, Alvin Weichel, Sandusky, 13th Ohio district congressman, who urged that McGregor be re-elected. McGregor then introduced Martin.

Judge Robert N. Putnam, of the Fifth district court of appeals, spoke on candidates for the state supreme court offices.

Chairmen of county executive and central committees in the 17th district were introduced.

Music was provided by Smart's accordion band.

Attendance Rewarded

Award pins for perfect attendance records will be presented to members of the Sunday school of the St. Paul Lutheran church tomorrow morning.

Among those who will receive awards are four who did not miss a Sunday during the entire church year; 19 who missed only two Sundays and 15 who missed only two Sundays in the past six months.

Sunday school officers are: Paul R. Lee, general superintendent; Robert Brook, superintendent of adult department; Mrs. W. B. Linn, superintendent of junior-primary department, and Mrs. Norman Cheape, who heads the beginners' department.

"The Sunday school attendance has shown a definite growth during the past year," Lee reported. "During each quarter, the attendance has increased over a comparable period for the previous year."
